Strutters' 50th

Once a Strutter, Always a Strutter! The Strutters Always Chapter of the Alumni Association hosted the 50-year celebration of the founding of the group on Oct. 10. The day began with a pre-game fajita buffet at Bobcat Stadium. During halftime of the Bobcat football game, more than 800 celebration attendees lined the field and made two rows from end zone to end zone on Jim Wacker Field, and the two women behind the Strutters' successful half century, Barbara Guinn Tidwell '62 and Susan Angell-Gonzalez '80, were given a special recognition. A gala for all attendees at the Embassy Suites Hotel in San Marcos wrapped up the day's events.

Pigeons to Pinot

More than 100 people attended a day of skeet shooting and wine tasting at "Pigeons to Pinot" on Sept. 12 at Texas State's Freeman Ranch. Silent and live auctions were also a part of the event.

Lone Star Swing performed an energetic blend of western swing, jazz and traditional country music. The band includes a line-up of musicians who have performed with big names in the music business that include George Strait, Willie Nelson and Lyle Lovett. Gary Hartman, who performs rhythm guitar and vocals with the band, is also the director of the Center of Texas Music History at Texas State.

The Texas State Alumni Association would like to thank the following event underwriters and donors: Diamondback Landscaping, Real Ale Brewing, Paul Bryant Shell Station and Rick Ramos, All Seasons, Blue Sky Mortgage, Caddo Sanders, Center for Texas Music History/Gary Hartman, Christina Lopez, Granzin's Meat Market, Garcia's Mexican Restaurant, Hill Country Wine Shoppe, Lisha Barker, San Marcos Ice and Water, Shana and Mark Cusack, Ted Miska Insurance, Texas Department of Agriculture - GO TEXAN, Thomason Funeral Home and Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife.

Facebook, MySpace, LinkedIn, Twitter

Facebook, MySpace, LinkedIn and Twitter have all become new means of communications for millions of people across the world, and the Alumni Association is not an exception to this trend. The association uses each of these Internet-based tools to stay connected to students and alumni and continue to maintain meaningful and lasting relationships.

These sites also give alumni the opportunity to network with other alumni in their area or around the world. The association also uses these means of communication to promote chapter events. Users on each of these sites have the opportunity to join the Texas State Alumni Association page or group and can follow the association's posting and updates.

Every Tuesday on each of these networking sites, a poll is posted based on Texas State. The association asks questions ranging from "What was your favorite costume for Halloween at Texas State or SWT?" to "What was your favorite dining hall on campus?" On Fridays, the association creates quizzes based on facts about Texas State, and winners earn a prize.

Texas State and the Alumni Association are now able to stay in contact with fellow Bobcats in a new, interactive way that is keeping people across the world more connected than ever.

Trade Up

Every year, Trade Up asks Texas State students the same question: If it's not Texas State, then why wear it?

This year Trade Up also asked students to give back to the San Marcos community. Bobcats Back the Bank debuted for the first time at the Texas State campus. The Student Chapter, University Star and KTSW 89.9 FM teamed up for a two-week food drive

2009 Homecoming

Bobcats returned home for a weekend of fun Oct. 30-31 and a chance to reconnect with fellow Texas State alumni back at their home on the hill. The celebration kicked off earlier with student activities including powder puff football, a talent show and Texas State's oldest student tradition – the soapbox derby on Bobcat Trail.

Each year the association chooses several alumni who have made an impact on Texas, the nation and the world to honor at homecoming. The newest Distinguished Alumnus Award recipients were Darren Casey '81 of San Antonio, Ross King '58 of San Marcos, Shawn McCormick '85 of San Antonio, John Moreau '84 of San Marcos and Wayne Oquin '99 of New York City (see page 72).

The 1959 Golden Graduates were honored with a breakfast Saturday morning to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their college graduation. Each Golden Grad was also honored with a golden medallion.

Discover Texas State also took place the weekend of homecoming. This event is the university's premier open house. The Alumni Association hosted van tours of the campus to show alumni how the university is changing. Alumni and friends had a day full with tours, lectures, hands-on demonstrations, exhibits and other activities.

The annual soapbox derby is a homecoming favorite and the oldest student tradition at Texas State. A big crowd gathered along Bobcat Trail to cheer the drivers.

President Denise Trauth congratulates homecoming queen Jennifer Kraft of San Antonio and king Dillon Bureson of Devine at halftime on Oct. 31.

The opening ceremony for the Texas State Memorial Garden took place on the Saturday of Homecoming weekend. The garden will provide a long-lasting tribute and legacy to students, faculty, staff, alumni and friends of those who have passed away (see page 7). In 2009, the Texas State Pride and Traditions Committee chose the grounds between Flowers and Lampasas halls near the Bell Tower as the Memorial Garden site. For more information on memorial opportunities, visit www.ua.txstate.edu/TSTA.html.

The Alumni Association hosted a fajita buffet in the alumni tents at Bobcat Stadium before the afternoon football game. Alumni and students showed their support by cheering the Bobcat football team as they defeated No. 11-ranked Stephen F. Austin 28-7 at the annual Homecoming football game.

The School of Music also hosted a reunion for music alumni that featured performances by alumni, students and faculty. The alumni band performance was one of many performances during the music reunion.

that collected food for the Hays County Food Bank. Students had the option of trading a tee from another university or five canned goods for a Texas State tee. Students at the Round Rock campus also participated in the food drive. Food collected there helped benefit the Round Rock Serving Center. Between the two campuses more than 1,200 pounds of food was collected for area food banks and 640 shirts were traded in for Texas State tees. The tees that students traded in were taken to a Goodwill, where they will not be able to make their return to the Texas State campus.

2009 Ring Ceremony

The Alumni Association celebrated the fifth year of the biannual Ring Ceremony on Dec. 8. At this ceremony, students eligible to receive their class rings have the opportunity to ceremonially dip their rings into San Marcos River water. The tradition and its recipients have grown with each year.

The official ring of Texas State is decorated with engravings of the Texas State star, Old Main and tubers on the San Marcos River. The ring represents a connection with classmates as well as alumni and serves as a symbol of a student's achievements.

Alumni Association board member Monica Gonzalez '78 of Austin congratulates her son Javier Gonzalez '09 at the Ring Ceremony in May.

San Antonio Power Breakfast

Distinguished Alumnus Dan Bates '66, CEO and president of Southwest Research Institute, hosted a Power Breakfast for San Antonio alumni. Susan Crumrine '77, vice president of the institute's Automation Data Systems Division, was the event speaker. Southwest Research employs almost 50 Texas State alumni.

Bobcats vs. Horned Frogs

President Denise Trauth and the Alumni Association hosted a pre-game reception at the Texas State vs. Texas Christian University football game. The reception was held on Sept. 19 in the tailgating area on the TCU campus in Fort Worth. Over 500 alumni and friends joined the association for the event and game. The Bobcats didn't win but scored more points against TCU than any other opponent in the 10 games before that. The last to score as many was Oklahoma.

Confetti Girl

Diana López's first novel for young readers, Confetti Girl, published in June by Little Brown, tackles big questions in the life of middle-school student Apolonia "Lina" Flores. Lina, who lives in Corpus Christi, is a sock enthusiast, a volleyball player, a science lover and a girl looking for answers to questions such as why her dad seems to care more about books than about her, why her best friend's divorced mom is obsessed with making cascarones (confetti-filled eggshells), and, most of all, why her mom died last year. As the San Antonio-Express News writes, Confetti Girl is also about fun, "a whole semester's worth, which includes confrontations with the school's most popular boy, a school festival, volleyball, friendship, boy-craziness, a quinceañera and trips to the beach – and to the counselor's office."

López, 1999 M.F.A. in creative writing, who taught eighth grade before assuming her current faculty position at St. Philip's College in San Antonio, is also the author of the adult novel

Sofia's Saints (Little Brown 2003). She is featured in Hecho en Tejas, an anthology of writing by Texas Mexicans (University of New Mexico Press 2007), and her short stories have appeared in Chicago Quarterly Review, Sycamore Review and New Texas Journal. López has been featured on NPR's Latino USA, and she is the 2004 winner of the Alfredo Cisneros Del Moral Award, sponsored by author Sandra Cisneros. And, like Lina in Confetti Girl, she likes to wear crazy socks.

Confetti Girl is available in hard cover and electronic form. Scholastic Books will publish Confetti Girl in paperback in 2010. ★

New CD from Martinez

Purgatory Road is the latest CD from singer-songwriter John Arthur Martinez '84. The collection of 11 tracks is earning good reviews after its release in September.

Martinez wrote or co-wrote most of the songs on the CD over a period of three decades. Musical styles among the 11 songs include the ballad of the title song, the Latino influence of "Que No Puede Ver," and the pure country of "You Can't Outdrink the Truth." "Utopia" from the CD is doing well on country charts as a single.

Martinez is a seasoned vocalist and guitarist. He has shared stages across the U.S. and Europe with Asleep at the Wheel, Randy Travis, Dwight Yoakum, Pat Green, Mark Chesnutt and others over the course of his career.

He lives in Marble Falls with his wife Yvonna and four children. ★

A passion for editorial cartoons

After he graduated in 1964 with a business degree, Bob Newton built a successful career in construction. And somewhere along the way, in addition to his passions for his business and for flying his own plane, the 68-year-old Granbury resident inherited another passion from his mother – editorial cartoons.

Helen Newton was active in the Fort Worth Republican Party during Bob's youth and was a frequent contributor to the Letters to the Editor column in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. She was so skilled at expressing her opinions that in 1956 she was invited to a banquet in Nashville honoring the best reader contributors to the editorial pages of the nation's newspapers.

So she packed up teenaged Bob and headed to Tennessee for the event, where she was seated near Tom Little, editorial cartoonist for the local paper. Hearing of her admiration for President Dwight D. Eisenhower, he sketched several caricatures including Ike on the back of the dinner menu and gave it to her.

The next day, he brought her the original of one of his newspaper cartoons, and a collection was born. Little went on to win the Pulitzer Prize for his editorial artistry, and Helen Newton started collecting cartoons.

Newton

She began to write other cartoonists asking for some of their work, and they generously responded. By the time of her death in 1999, the collection had grown to 750 originals, including several other Pulitzer Prize winners.

While his mother was busy collecting cartoons, Bob spent his first two years of college at the University of Georgia before moving to Dallas and working as a banker. He transferred to Texas State to complete his education after hearing good things about the university from friends in Dallas.

Shortly after his arrival on campus, he met Bonnie Moore '63, and they married a year later. He started in the construction business in 1970 and built a successful company with Newton Development Corporation. When the real estate market turned down in 1988, he relocated his company to Kansas before selling it in 2000 and retiring back to Texas.

Newton has about 75 framed cartoons from his mother's collection in his home office adjacent to his airplane hangar in Granbury.

"Her favorites were those that pertained to Eisenhower and to the U.S. space program," Newton said. His mother's interest in the space program had grown after she moved to Houston in 1963 and went to work for NASA's base for astronaut training. The astronauts, whose exploits some of the cartoons celebrated, signed many of those cartoons.

With limited space for the entire collection and much of it stored, Newton's dream is to find a permanent home where the entire collection can be displayed. ★

Alum dies in Afghanistan

Darryn Andrews, who earned his master's degree in education from Texas State in 2008, was killed in Afghanistan when his vehicle was attacked on Sept. 4. The Army paratrooper, a second lieutenant, was on his second tour of duty there.

Andrews, 34, was a graduate of Yoe High School in Cameron and had an undergraduate degree from Texas Tech. He and his wife Julie, who received a B.S. degree from Texas State in 2007, were in the process of moving to New Braunfels to rear their family, which includes a son Daylan, 2, and another child on the way.

Andrews joined the armed forces six years ago, following in the tradition of his grandfather, an Army World War II veteran, and his father and uncle, both Air Force veterans. He and his twin brother Jarrett had grown up in Borger and White Deer before their family moved to Cameron. ★

The small city she calls "home"

Born and raised in Moldova in Eastern Europe, Lilia Rode first came to New Braunfels in 1996 as an exchange student during her senior year of high school. Thirteen years later, Rode is back in the town that she fell in love with the first time she stepped foot in the U.S.

"If you had asked me 10 years ago if that would be the plan, I would have had to say 'no,'" Rode said. "But I wanted to come back to New Braunfels. I wanted to be involved in the community that brought me to the U.S."

Rode returned to the U.S. once before, in 1998, to attend college at Texas State. She graduated with a degree in marketing in 2000 and went on to law school at the University of Houston. She was hired by the major international firm Jones Day, which employs more than 2,400 lawyers in 32 locations worldwide. Then fate stepped in, offering Rode the opportunity she had been waiting for.

"I say 'fate' because I was looking for an opportunity to come back home, to be closer to my mother and family who are here in New Braunfels," Rode said. "Seemingly out of nowhere, I received a call from John Dierksen, a partner at Reagan Burrus in New Braunfels."

Dierksen, who had been Rode's Rotary exchange student coordinator in 1995-96, offered her the position of associate at Reagan Burrus, which Rode said she gladly accepted.

"I have always loved New Braunfels and its people," Rode said. "This small city is the place I call 'home' here in the U.S. It is a warm, welcoming community that has made an impact on my life as well as many others'. Here I have more direct client contact and get more court experience and am able to take ownership and responsibility of a case from beginning to finish." ★

"Second chance" scholarship

Deborah and Adam Clement of Kemah, near Houston, decided to honor their son Trent by setting up a "second chance" scholarship in his memory. Trent Clement was a sophomore psychology major when he died in 2005 at age 23.

"It was really his idea," said his mother. "Trent saw kids not make it when they tried college the first time. He thought they deserved some help when they decided to try again." When he was diagnosed with brain cancer about a year before he died, he asked his parents to set up a scholarship to help those students.

Trent's parents retired, sold their home in Baytown, where Trent graduated from high school in 2000, and moved into a house on the beach. It was almost destroyed by Hurricane

Ike in 2008, and they are living in a mobile home while they rebuild. "We still plan to add to that scholarship, though," Deborah Clement said, "because it meant so much to Trent." ★
