F-1 students are required by the Department of Homeland Security to maintain the terms and conditions of their nonimmigrant status. Failure to maintain status will result in the termination of a student's SEVIS record and require immediate departure from the US. F-1 students are required to pursue a "full course of study" every fall and spring semester; full-time in summer is only required when a student is admitted to begin in the summer term. A "full course of study" is considered full-time enrollment, which is 9 credit hours for graduate students and 12 credit hours for undergraduates. Dropping or registering below full-time enrollment without prior approval from International Student and Scholar Services (ISSS) is considered a violation of status.

Final Semester RCL Limitation: A student who fails a course during the last term consisting of a final semester RCL, may again have a final session with less than a full course load. A second consecutive authorization for an RCL in a student's final semester should be reported in SEVIS in order to ensure that the student is continuing to make progress toward program completion. If a student does not finish the program of study after a second final term with an RCL, the student is not eligible for a third RCL. Exception: Graduate students not holding an assistantship can be enrolled in fewer than 9 hours and be considered full-time if they have completed all course requirements and are working on their thesis/dissertation only. The thesis/dissertation final semester can be granted for multiple semesters provided the student makes progress on the thesis/dissertation.

Student should apply for graduation by the deadline. Failure to apply for graduation does not permit continued enrollment.

Student who is participating in an internship or equivalent must also apply for Curricular Practical Training (CPT) with this RCL.

A student who has satisfied all degree requirements cannot continue to be enrolled and must apply for OPT, a change/adjustment of status, a SEVIS transfer, or depart the US.

The RCL is for immigration purposes only and does not permit multiple semesters of less than full-time enrollment for graduate students holding a graduate assistantship. Contact the Graduate College for graduate assistantship eligibility when using an RCL.
